api methods support defining characteristics of the nodes of a visualization, including the links between them that determine the graphic representation